

Important Notice concerning your USB Connection

Many computer manufacturers will use lower quality USB communication microchips to keep their costs down. This can result in many USB powered devices to not work properly. Unfortunately this issue can affect the performance of your Home Test Lab Suite. It is highly recommended that if you see inadequate performance from the Home Test Lab Suite or any other USB device you should purchase an AC Powered USB hub. At this point Lullhaven Research LLC does not offer this device, but you can pick one up at any electronics store or online. The price range for a USB Hub is $10 to $30. We are committed to bring the highest quality products to our customers and plan to address this issue in future models.

Thank you again for your purchase, and we look forward to serving you again.

Lullhaven Research LLC & Home Test Lab

